

To: Star Robert Scott II

Sent: Sun, December 13, 2009 2:05:16 AM

Subject: Sheryl Carr sent you a message on Facebook...

Sheryl sent you a message. ----- Re: Hello!

Dear Star, I have not answered your email for many reasons and most of them are my own, but I find I need to just say a few "private" words to you about this subject. First and foremost, this is between Lori and your dad and as close as she and I are and we share everything, I would never do anything without first consulting her and her feelings. Perhaps you might do well to do the same. You see Star, she doesn't hate you, or want to excommunicate herself from your life, or that of your family. Lori is a very loving and giving person, especially to those she loves and holds dear. She was just so hurt by your taking such a private and personal thing about her and making it so public for all to see. It was like she was "molested" all over again. It should have been her choice and her decision to do so, not yours. I do however understand your need or feelings towards your dad. I have them too and have had them for longer than you have been alive. Your father is indeed an evil man and you are far better off to be free of him and his cult. I understand that you are hurt and have lost and suffered much, but unless Lori is able and wants to pursue any legal or criminal actions toward your dad you are just spinning your wheels. It is her decision and only she can decide if that is the right choice for her. Pushing her is only stressing her out more and causing her to turn away from you. If you would just support her and stop asking her for things she isn't capable of right now. Just be her loving cousin and pray for her as well. Possibly then she will start to heal and realize you are coming from a place of support and love. You see Star, unless you have walked in her shoes and experienced all she has gone through then you could never know the depth of hurt and pain she has gone through. It has truly been her own private hell all of these years. What you did was unearth the evil in her memories and broadcast it to the world. I wish you could understand the pain you caused. I know you only did it because you were trying to help open up the eyes of those who are in bondage to your father, but you should have left her name out of it and the ugly details. It was not your place. I'm sorry if I sound harsh, as it is not my intention to do so, but you have to know what she is going through and see it through her eyes. What happened to her was a private hellish experience that she deals with everyday. Your dad is the most despicable human being I have ever had the misfortune to know in my life. My dear father, whom has now gone on to be with the Lord, knew it and believed it about him as well. It was one of his biggest pastoral regrets, to have ever hired him in the first place. To have given that man any contact with the innocent youth of our church. It was not my dad's fault that your dad had a permanent character flaw, but he always felt such sorrow for Lori and all she experienced and suffered. My dad loved Lori just as if she was his own daughter and he wanted to protect her, but how do you protect her from her own uncle? He could not, neither could I and he got to her anyway. It is also one of my regrets that I could not have stopped him or his intentions. I knew what he was and I knew what he was doing because he tried it with a few of us girls in the youth group, but was unsuccessful. He's a sick demented man. You see, I know your dad Star, I know he is cunning, and deceptive. He is very charismatic and pulls you in with his charm and knowledge of God and the bible teachings. He makes you feel as though he has superior knowledge and understanding of what God is saying to you. He is the worse kind of liar, because he actually believes it himself. You are pulled in before you know what has hit you, because he is so convincing. He is arrogant and prideful and loves money and power. He actually feeds off of it and searches it out as if a need inside of himself. He IS a child molester and a dangerous one. I believe his current wife is not the first and will not be the last. He has just convinced them to keep quiet. I would not trust him with his own children or grandchildren...ever!! He is a sick man and yes he needs to be stopped, but GOD is the only one who can stop him. God WILL stop him Star. I don't know how or when, but He will stop him. Unfortunately, many will be hurt and affected for the rest of their lives, but prayer is the only key. It's not Lori's single responsibility to stop him...it's not all on her shoulders. Just let her try to heal and recover from this tragedy. Give her at least that dignity. God will do the rest and YOU have to trust HIM! I didn't mean to say so much, but this is a sore subject with me and I am very protective of my best-friend Lori. She is my first and only concern. Your dad can drop off the earth for all I care. I do have much empathy for your friends and loved ones trapped by this horrible "man" and I use that term lightly...but my concern is for Lori and Debbie and her family. I leave the rest to God and His almighty hand. You would do well to do the same and start over with your family and be grateful to God for delivering you from it and him. I know you are having a difficult time and I am so sorry, I do and have prayed for you all. I loved Janet, she was a sweet and loving person and I hated seeing what your dad did to her and how she lived out the years she had left. He deceived her as well. My heart goes out to you. I pray for your peace and comfort, but it's only the Lord who can help now. We have to trust Him. If you can do anything to stop him, then so be it, but your own family has suffered much during this battle. They need you strong and steady in the Lord. Go on with your life and make wonderful memories with them. They will forget the ugly things they've seen, but you have to help them. It's you whom they need now...their father and provider. Be the husband and father your dad WAS NOT...be the best and finest person you can be in their eyes. Then and only then will you find peace, not in money or revenge. Remember, "The best revenge is living WELL"...Live well Star and go with God! I will be praying for you and yours this Christmas Season!

God Bless, Sheryl -----